The Best Practices

□ The Tribal Key Components

□ The Drug Court Standards

Key Component #1: Individual and Community Healing Focus

Brings together

- alcohol and drug treatment
- community healing resources
- the tribal justice process

by using a team approach

- to achieve the physical and spiritual healing of the individual participant, and
- to promote Native nation building and the well-being of the community.

NADCP Drug Court Standards: #8

□ Standard 8 Multidisciplinary Team

A dedicated multidisciplinary team of professionals manages the day-to-day operations, including

- reviewing participant progress during pre-court staffing meetings and status hearings,
- contributing observations and recommendations within team members' respective areas of expertise, and
- delivering or overseeing the delivery of legal, treatment and supervision services.

Key #4: Treatment and Rehabilitation

Tribal Healing to Wellness Court provides access to holistic, structured, and phased alcohol and drug abuse treatment and rehabilitation services that incorporate culture and tradition.

NADCP Drug Court Standards: #6

□ Standard 6 Complementary Treatment and Social Services

Participants receive complementary treatment and social services for conditions that co-occur with substance abuse and are likely to interfere with their compliance, increase criminal recidivism, or diminish treatment gains.

Complimentary Services

- Housing Assistance
- Mental Health Treatment
- Trauma-Informed Services
- Criminal Thinking Interventions
- Family and Interpersonal Counseling
- Vocational and Educational Services
- Medical and Dental Treatment
- Prevention of Health-Risk Factors
- Overdose Prevention and Reversal

Serving the Family

- Family issues are one of the most commonly identified criminogenic factors
- Family interventions are one of the most effective methods to reduce offender recidivism
- Inadequate family support, family problems, and family disruption contribute to offending
- Attachment to children reduces violations

Serving the Family

Children of Parents with Substance Use Disorders

- Severe, inconsistent, or inappropriate discipline
- Neglect of basic needs
- Situations that jeopardize child's safety and health
- Trauma
- Disruption of parent/child relationship
- Disproportionately in foster care and less likely to return home; in juvenile justice caseloads; in residential treatment programs

Challenges for the Parents

- Parent lacks understanding of and ability to cope with child's medical, developmental, behavioral, and emotional needs
- Child's physical and development needs were not assessed and/or treated
- Parent and child did not receive trauma or relationship services

Parenting in Wellness Court

- Drug Courts that provide parenting class had 65% greater reductions in criminal recidivism.

Consider Asking...

- About other family relationships?
- If children are screened for services?
- If children receive appropriate assessment, and intervention and treatment services?
- If child and family status are asked at intake?
- How are your kids doing?

Key #10: Team Interaction

The development and maintenance of ongoing commitments, communication, coordination, and cooperation among Tribal Healing to Wellness Court team members, service providers and payers, the community and relevant organizations, including the use of formal written procedures and agreements, are critical for Tribal Wellness Court success.
